Mr. John A. McCone
 Director
 Central Intelligence Agency
 Langley, Virginia

Dear Mr. McCone:

STAT It is a pleasure to express the appreciation of the U. S. Army Intelligence School for a highly beneficial period of instruction by [redacted] at Fort Holabird on 28 May 1962 to members of the Senior Foreign Officer Intelligence Course.

STAT [redacted] lecture was very well received by this group of foreign officers. The students were afforded a keen insight into the problems of economic intelligence as well as the value of this subject in the overall production of strategic intelligence. The specific examples pertaining to the Soviet Union and Communist China, which the speaker cited to illustrate various aspects of his talk, were of particular interest.

STAT Thank you for making this presentation possible and please convey to [redacted] the sincere appreciation of the Staff and Faculty.

Sincerely,

MATTHEW C. STEWART
